“Why Commute?”

designed by Pip Probert

With more people now working from home, beautiful spaces that can be used to both work in and spend time with the family are key.

Set within a suburban area, the garden office building is the main structure within the plot, which features a sedum roof that is mimicked in a storage area tucked away at the side of the building. A metal pergola structure and two metal arches add height and create separation between the areas, without fully blocking them off. There is a separate access to the right side of the garden, keeping clients and business visitors from entering the family home.

The raised planter along the front face acts as a boundary, separating the drive and enclosing the garden space.

Cercis are positioned to the left of the plot, chosen for their airy canopy and to give a good shape and coverage towards the boundary. Hydrangeas with their large, colourful leaves are positioned at the front face to add interest and allow surrounding plants to stand out.

ABOUT OUTER SPACES

With over 17 years' experience in design, build and planting works, over the years Outer Spaces has worked on 39 show gardens at various shows including RHS Chelsea, RHS Tatton Park, RHS Malvern, Gardeners World and Gardening Scotland. All of which have won awards with numerous Gold Medals and even a Best in Show award. We have also been involved in other International Shows such as the Besiktas Garden Festival, Istanbul and the Beijing Horticultural Expo. Previous projects include public gardens and commercial landscape developments, but mostly private garden schemes.

Outer Spaces Landscapes Ltd is directed by both Pip Probert and Wez Salthouse, offering the full design and build service. Priding themselves on a personal approach from the initial design consultation through to completion. Not only do they work on hard and soft landscaping projects but also various events.

Pip Probert is also featured as one of the Garden Designers on the BBC program, "Your Garden Made Perfect".
